

DID YOU KNOW?

You can learn about West Virginia people, places and things by searching the West Virginia Humanities Council's e-WV, the online version of The West Virginia Encyclopedia. e-WV shows West Virginia's history, culture, and people. It is thoroughly innovative, enhanced with audio and video, hundreds of illustrations, maps, time lines, and other features. To try it, just click here

.

PRACTICE TESTS

Try online test preparation courses and practice tests including ACT, SAT, GRE, ASVAB, Civil Service and many other tests...

Looking for magazine or newspaper articles?

EBSCO research databases contain articles from a huge variety of popular magazines, journals, and newspapers. Type in your search terms and then set the Search Options to get a customized search.